Union Board to Feature 'La Strada' Sunday

"La Strada," a movie about people, will be shown as a special feature at 7 p. m. Sunday in the Administration Building.

The movie is dominated by three characters: Zampano, Gelsomina, and the Fool. Zampano is a man of the road. He lives homeless, rootless, and lonely and is not secure unless he has complete control. He protests that he doesn't need anybody; yet he constantly uses people. He is the strong man who is not strong. His name means "heavy boot." He is humorless, empty, closed.

The film's name "La Strada" literally means "the road." Zampano is "the road." Gelsomina is "the girl of the sea." She lives by the sea; she loves the sea; she dies by the sea. She has an at-homeness with things religious and has the spirit of St. Francis about her. She is open and responsive to reality, just as Zampano is closed to it. Her name means "little flower" or "jasmine."

The Fool is the man of the sky. He is first seen in the movie on the high wire. He is a man of humor, of music, of intelligence, of vitality. And like all the fools in literary and dramatic tradition, he is no fool.

A close look at Il Matto's (the Fool's) death starts a new line of thought. When he is killed by Zampano, he is dragged away with his arms outstretched cruciform. His body is placed in a stone culvert. This clue invites a closer look at how he died. He had been struck three times. His watch had stopped. He had died clutching the earth in front of three trees.

The ending of the film and the change in Zampano are the result of a process begun with the appearance of the Fool and precipitated by his death. Gelsomina's role in the humanization of Zampano was shaped through her encounter with the Fool. He put some meaning into what she was doing. He could have talked her into coming with him, but he understood Zampano's need and Gelsomina's unique role.

The message of the Fool is reinforced by the nun at the convent who stated that Gelsomina's vocation was to follow Zampano just as she herself followed Christ.

People with student identification cards and people with activity tickets will be admitted free, Dan Greer, Union director, announced.

Former Resident Gives Recital Here

Tom Pierson, a former Maryville resident, returned Tuesday to give a piano recital at NWMSC.

The artist presented selections by Bach, Beethoven, and Liszt. The program was sponsored by the Northwest Missouri State Distinguished Lecture Series.

The 19-year-old pianist gave his first public performance at the age of five appearing on television in Omaha, Neb. At 13 he was the winner of the Houston, Tex., Symphony Young Artist Auditions and received the honor again the following year. As a result, the Houston Symphony featured him as soloist in five of its contests.

Mr. Pierson lived in Maryville in 1948-50 when his father, Dr. Thomas C. Pierson, was on the music faculty at NWMSC. He also received some of his early training from Mrs. Ward Rounds, NWMSC Music Department, when she was associated with Chadron State College in Nebraska.

ment of responsible student participation in the overall policy and decision making process and can better represent the feelings of the majority of the students.

Tom Frank

"I hope this new form of government will enable the students to express their views and ideas more freely and more effectively."

The Stroller has a rat problem, too. Report has it that another student is so fond of his rat that he has made booties and a sweater for the dear creature.

And following the trend, the St. Joseph-to-Campus bus refused to start on its new time schedule Tuesday.

The Stroller really knows his Greek alphabet, but he overlooked a spelling error last week in his compliment to the men's service organization.

Honors for campus cleanup go to Alpha Phi Omega. Their general service work on campus hit an all-time high at the recent Ugly Man Carnival, which will result in approximately a $20,000 addition to the Student Loan fund.

"How I would like to find a way to get a 90 per cent return on my investment as those fellows did," commented ye olde campus strolling detective.

The Stroller noticed many sleepy-eyed people stumbling across campus this week.

One friend of the Stroller decided the best way to approach daylight savings time was to skip all eight o'clock classes this week.

The clocks went awry! Even the campus chimes did not abide by the new time.

Strong Trenton Team Enters District Track Meet Here Tomorrow

Trenton High School will be seeking its first district track win in the school's history at the Class M and S Track Meet in Rickenbrode Field tomorrow.

Senior John Hamilton will probably be one of the top performers for Trenton and in the field. Hamilton, who earlier recorded the best broad jump in all three classes in the state indoor meet with a leap of 22' 8 1/2", is out to break the district broad jump and 100- and 440-yard dash marks. Hamilton, also an All-State quarterback, has jumped 22' 9 1/2" (record, 21' 10"), has run the 440 in 50.5 (record, 50.7), and has done the 100 in 10.2 (record, 10.1). The Trenton senior, who has shown considerable interest in attending NWMSC on a football-track scholarship, also will compete in the high jump and 220.

Two hurdle marks could also fall. Jim Plymell of Cameron has already exceeded the 120 high hurdle mark of 15.6 by a tenth of a second and Larry Prior of Fillmore has a 20.0 mark in the 180-yard low hurdles, which is two-tenths under the record. Miller of Savannah has equaled the 6' 1" high jump record.

According to Dr. Paul Gates, meet director, field events and preliminaries will begin at 9:30 a. m. and finals will start at 1:15 p. m. There will be a 50 cent charge for the afternoon events.

Northwest State Aggies Place Second in Regional Contest

The livestock judging team from NWMSC placed second in the Southern Region Livestock, Dairy, and Soils Judging Conference held on the NWMSC campus Saturday.

Placing first in sheep, second in beef cattle, and third in swine, the local stockmen garnered 2,710 points but were nosed out of high team honors by Northeastern Oklahoma A and M by three points.

Gary Meers, St. Joseph, was high point winner for the state college judges being high in beef cattle and fourth high individual in the contest. Barry Whitehill, Shenandoah, was high judge in sheep. Beric Steinman, Stanberry, and Richard Flowers, Creston, placed eleventh and fourteenth among the 24 students participating from six colleges and universities.

In the dairy division NWMSC again placed second, yielding to Northeast Oklahoma A and M, which also had the high individual. Second high individual honors went to Alan Goodspeed, NWMSC.

The Maryville Aggies eliminated themselves from the soils competition because of acquaintance with soil sites. First and second places went to Berea College, Berea, Ky., and Illinois State University, Normal, respectively. Berea had the high individual in the event.

Other colleges and Universities participating were Tennessee Polytechnic University, Austin Peay State College, Wilmington College, and Western Illinois University.

'Tanner' Gets Citation From Feline Society

Mrs. Robert Sunkel of the Department of Business sent a copy of "Tanner," a feature that appeared in the Missourian, to The American Feline Society in New York.

The Society in turn sent the Northwest Missouri State College Theater a citation for "distinguished and meritorious effort on behalf of America's 21,000,000 cats." The citation commended Tanner "specifically for her histrionic ability of opposite gender portrayal in NWMSC Little Theatre productions."

Coed Practices with Boy's Team

Kathie Maschke

Blue-eyed Kathie Maschke plays tennis—but not with the girls.

Kathie, the freshman girl who practices every evening with the boys' varsity team, enjoys tennis because it makes her concentrate and it is good exercise. A member of Phi Mu fraternity, she also ice skates, swims, and plays golf.

Rarely since she began tennis in the sixth grade has she put aside her racket. For two years, Kathie played in the girls' state tennis meet. This summer her tennis competition, because of employment, will probably be restricted to the Missouri Valley Meet.

Although women may not play in regular match games because of MIAA rules, Kathie recently was the No. 4 singles "man" in a practice match with Clarinda Community College.

Her 6-4, 6-4 loss was a good showing, according to Coach Bob Gregory, especially since it was her first competition in over a year. "If I hadn't been scared, everything would have been fine," Kathie remarked. "I was petrified."

Kathie, a powerful slammer, has played with boys' tennis teams before. At Des Moines East High School, she consistently crushed the No. 2 girls' competitor at East 6-0, 6-0; therefore, because of a lack of competition, she practiced with the boys' team. And she sometimes beat them!

When asked about her reactions toward defeating boys, she replied, "I feel bad when I beat boys. 'Sometimes I feel that I might hurt their feelings by beating them, but it is kind of fun," she giggled.

Kampus oments

By Dale Gorsuch

Recent demonstrations by students at other college campuses have sparked accusations from some state legislators that undesirable student "leftists" whom they feel are behind these riots should be removed from the campus communities.

The assumption would seem to be that the presence of these so-called leftists is in some way unsafe for the American college campus. Could this be a throw-back to the McCarthy Era of witch hunting that smeared the United States during the early 1950's, or could it be an indication of something more terrible: a new witch hunt?

Possibly it has not occurred to the legislators that the very essence of the democratic system is that it is able to allow the minority groups to express their opinions freely.

It seems however, that so-called fascists, Marxists, and other minority opposition groups are not allowed on a great many American campuses on the grounds that they are disruptive influences on young minds. I recall another so-called disruptive influence on youth. The one of whom I am thinking was forced to drink hemlock in Athens.

If the United States educational system would like to admit that it is not democratic, I would be the first to agree. However, as long as American educators claim to adhere to the doctrines of democracy, they should at least practice what they preach.

The cry is often raised that such leftist groups as Marxists tend to pollute the atmosphere with violence and malcontent. If groups are allowed to air their grievances in free expression, they seldom resort to violence.

Boston Tea Parties usually occur only when all other methods of communication have broken down as they theoretically should not in a system as perfect as the American Democracy.

I am not advocating violence or destruction but the right of any groups to 1) exist on the American college campus, and 2) present their grievances under the Bill of Rights.

The point is, Students of American Democracy, take heed: Is democracy workable only in a play-by-my-

AWS Answers Questions On Sex Education Program

Associated Women Students has secured data to answer student questions following a sex education program it conducted on campus Apr. 4.

In response to a panel discussion held after a film was shown, the student audience was dissatisfied with what it considered vague answers given by the panel. Members urged that sex education be brought out into the open and discussed frankly, but when a student wanted to know the exact number of cases of venereal disease reported on this campus, he was told that such information was confidential.

Students insisted they want to know the facts. Sensing this, a local physician who participated on the panel, was concerned with the interest shown by the students about knowing just how bad the problem of venereal disease is here. The Department of Public Health and Welfare sent him the following statistics and he has passed them on to the student body through AWS.

Listing of venereal disease morbidity showing cases of syphilis and gonorrhea reported for 1964, 1965, and 1966:

rules situation, or does it work with free expression? If this play-by-my-rules situation does exist, what are the rules?

James Garner, Douglas Head Den Movie Cast

"The Americanization of Emily," starring Julie Andrews, James Garner, Melvyn Douglas, and James Coburn will be shown at 7 p. m. Saturday night in the Administration Building.

Lt. Commander James Garner enjoys his non-combat duties as aid to Admiral Melvyn Douglas and is completely unscrupulous in keeping his boss well-supplied with scarce commodities through his adept wheeling and dealing.

The over-pressured admiral suffers a temporary derangement and insists on carrying out a plan that will put self-avowed coward Garner on Omaha Beach. Through a fluke, he becomes a "dead" hero and sardonic twists follow one another.

The film debunks the heroism and nobility of war—sometimes through comedy, sometimes through cynical philosophy.

President Foster Tells Changes In New Catalog

The general college catalog for 1967-68 will carry changes in the requirements for the various degrees offered at Northwest Missouri State College, Dr. Robert P. Foster announced this week.

These changes will not affect students presently enrolled. They will apply to new students entering in the fall of 1967. Present enrollees, however, may elect to follow the new catalog.

No student will be jeopardized or required to attend additional terms in order to complete the requirements for the degree because of these changes. Students presently enrolled should not be concerned about having to do additional work.

"The interpretation of the change in the catalog will be very liberal, flexible, and broad in application," President Foster has stressed.

Any consideration concerning the interpretation of the new catalog changes should be directed to the dean of administration, Dr. Charles Thate, or the registrar, Mrs. Ruth Nystrom.

Hager Lowers 100 Mark at Drake; 'Cats Prepare for Graceland Meet

Another NWMSC record was captured by 'Cat sprinter Pete Hager when he lowered the School 100-yard dash mark to 9.5 at the Drake Relays last Friday.

Hager qualified for the finals with the record time, a tenth of a second under the school record of 9.6, which he established last season. A tight adductor muscle hampered when the sophomore from Pennsylvania was clocked at 9.7. The winning time was 9.5.

The mile relay team of Normal Howlett, Kent Kavanaugh, Phil Frahm, and Hager had their best time of the season
